THE BONUS SYSTEM.

The Hamilton Times reads our contemporary, the Colonist, a lecture on the bonus system. While not altogether agreeing with the expressions of our Hamilton name-sake, there is considerable in the article that we can cordially endorse. Our local contemporary certainly erred—ignorant of the actual facts no doubt—in regard to the course many eastern cities had adopted. The Hamilton Times is certainly in a position to write intelligently on the subject, for the "ambitious little city" beyond all other Canadian municipalities in the past expended vast sums to extend its railway system and foster its mercantile and manufacturing industries. Many years ago the city borrowed money from the municipal loan fund to aid in the construction of the Great Western Railway. The construction of the Grand Trunk and the building of the Toronto branch of the Great Western Railways, gave Toronto an immense impetus, enabling the Queen City in a few years to eclipse her rival at the head of navigation. Trade gradually found its way to Toronto, and Hamilton became municipally bankrupt; so much so that the city's property was seized by the sheriff to satisfy outstanding claims. A re-action set in and Hamilton again became a bold competitor for a share of the traffic that was pouring into the lap of Toronto. Aid was given to the extension of the Wellington, Grey and Bruce Railway from Guelph northwards to Southampton and Kincardine, two triangular points on Lake Huron; a line was built northwesterly to tap the old Buffalo and Lake Huron railway, running from Lake Huron to Lake Erie, and another heavily subsidized to run northeasterly toward Collingwood, tapping the Northern of Canada, and the Grand Trunk at Georgetown. Thus Hamilton by land as well as by water had ample access to all parts of the country. Her transportation facilities were unrivalled. Manufacturers, aware of her advantages in this respect, as well as many other considerations, such as low rate of taxation, cheap gas and water, located themselves in Hamilton to such an extent that Hamilton justly claims the distinction of being the second manufacturing city in the Dominion. A similar line of policy has been pursued by Toronto, Kingston, London, Guelph, Brantford and other places to extend their railway systems and transportation facilities. Within the last few months the city of London has voted a bonus of $75,000 to secure additional railway facilities; Guelph voted a sum of $100,000 to secure a line of 14 miles in extent to connect with the Credit Valley system of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the latter company agreeing to operate the line for 40 per cent. of the revenue. Counties and townships have likewise voted heavy amounts to railways. The Ontario government has bonused lines of railways to the extent of many millions. All of which is conclusive proof that the system of granting aid to public enterprises is deemed to be just. THE TIMES advocates similar treatment in this province to railway and other public enterprises that have for their object the opening up and development of the country's resources. If aid is to be given by the government the greatest possible care should be taken that the enterprise is on a sound financial basis and certain to result in benefitting the community at large. In reference to private concerns there may be exceptional cases which deserve recognition to the extent of a remission of taxes for a term of years, the free use of city water, and possibly a loan for a time to get the venture fairly launched. The question is one admitting of discussion and we shall be pleased to open our columns to such as take an interest in such subjects and handle the question intelligently.

MR. LANDRY'S MOTION.

The debate on Mr. LANDRY'S motion of censure on the government for executing RIEL was continued in Ottawa until last Thursday, when a vote was taken resulting in a majority of 94 against the motion. The Liberals "split" on the question; many prominent members, such as Hon. ALEX. MACKENZIE, Sir RICHARD CARTWRIGHT, Mr. PATTERSON of Brant, Charlton and many others voting with the government, which accounts for the large majority. Mr. BLAKE closed the debate for the week ending the 20th, in a 5½ hours speech, which is said to have been a very able one. It was more of a judicial than a political speech. He made no attempt at oratory; but confined himself largely to quoting from authorities relative to the mental condition of RIEL, whom he believed to be a fanatic. Being of that opinion he could not vote otherwise than in favor of the motion. He spoke only for himself. It was no party question, and such being the case, his followers were allowed to act with the greatest freedom on the subject. Hon. Mr. THOMPSON, Minister of Justice resumed the debate on Monday, speaking for five hours; directing his remarks largely in rebutting the arguments advanced by Mr. BLAKE. Mr. THOMPSON'S address was listened to with marked attention by a full house on the floor and in the galleries. His speech was by far the best and ablest delivered on the government side.

VANCOUVER.

The principle of the bill incorporating the new city of Vancouver has been affirmed in the House by a vote of 13 to 7. The expediency of incorporation has been declared, and it would appear to the friends of the bill, as well as to those who are entirely disinterested, that all the Legislature has to do now is to pass it through as rapidly as it is consistent with a careful consideration of the varied interests involved, and the well-being of the new community. But it would seem as though some of the members were going to oppose it to the last, and by their actions, when the bill was before the committee last evening, have evinced a determination to kill it if it is in their power to do so.

The bill is admitted by every person to be one of the best ever brought before the House. It is very lengthy and the plea is now put forward that at this late stage of the session the House cannot take time to consider it in detail. It is unquestionably one of the most important bills introduced during the session, and time ought to be found to pass it.

Mr. THEO. DAVIE has shown a decided hostility to this measure from the start. He moved last night that the committee "do rise," a motion which, had it prevailed, would have defeated the bill.

Messrs. COWAN, GRANT, DUCK, SMITHE, and other members, had the good sense to oppose this view.

Hon. Mr. ROBSON expressed surprise at the proposition. The measure had cost the community it proposed to incorporate a great deal of time and money. The Private Bills Committee had bestowed much labor on it; and it was admitted on all hands to be an excellent measure. The proposition to kill it now was most unfair to the community seeking incorporation, and he hoped it would not be entertained by the House. They were told they could now incorporate under the general act; but that course was open to them in the first instance, and moreover, the House had ample evidence during the present session of the defectiveness of the general act, which was rapidly becoming an inexplicable piece of patchwork.

Fortunately, the majority were in favor of treating the bill in a fair and considerate spirit, and it was referred to a special committee, the object being to relieve the House of the work of going over it seriatem.

PARLIAMENTARY POINTERS.

The silence of the Finance Minister throughout the session was explained yesterday, when he moved the House into committee of supply. The incubation of his budget speech has monopolized his time and thoughts for the past two months, to the exclusion of everything else. It was his first attempt, and, making due allowance for the "bounce" with which the two hours' recitation was interlarded, the "off-hand speech" would have been a passably creditable effort for the leading scholar of a graduating class.

The peroration was given at the start, the apology for inability to grapple with "figgers" came afterwards, and the exordium limped in a bad third. Beginning at pre-Confederation times, he reviewed the revenues and expenditures of the province down to the present, and tired his supporters before he had fairly started. Mr. POOLEY went sound asleep, the member for Comox drew a life-like picture of the orator, the Provincial Secretary yawned impatiently once or twice and then sunk into a reverie, while a majority of the ministerialists betook themselves to the smoking room, from which they emerged only in time to applaud vociferously the "off-hand budget speech of the Minister of Finance. The opposition gave him an excellent hearing. Early in the speech Mr. BEAVEN politely asked him to state his authority for certain figures that he was quoting, and was promptly snubbed. After that the Finance Minister was not once interrupted.

Apart from the gush, there was nothing in the speech. It carefully avoided any reference to the present alarming financial condition of the province, and made up in "words" and "ancient history" what it lacked in argument. It was an essay, written out and committed to memory. "Only that and nothing more."

Mr. BEAVEN said more to the point in half an hour than our local "mixer, and muddler of 'figgers'" said in the two hours and a half that it took to talk himself dry. With clear and logical argument, he laid bare the true state of the provincial finances. Divesting the subject of all extraneous references to prohibitive tariffs and tearing aside the mass of verbiage with which the floundering "figgerer" had clothed his "off-hand" and purely "extempore" speech, the leader of the opposition went directly to the root of the evil. He showed that the financial affairs of the province were in a more unfortunate position than at the present time, and proved beyond question that the present ministers were responsible for the crisis which is fast approaching. The difference between the two speakers in their ability to grasp the subject and present it in an intelligible manner was very marked, and a comparison did not redound to the credit of the unfledged financier who was called in at the eleventh hour to complete the ruin wrought by his colleagues.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY

Fourth Session—Fourth Parliament.

MONDAY, March 29.

SUPPLY.

Mr. Beaven in rising to reply to the Treasurer said he did not propose to follow that hon. gentleman in all his figures. The Finance Minister had stated that he proposed to meet the over expenditure of $250,000 by an overdraft at the bank. The hon. gentleman had no authority to overdraw that amount, not even $500. The government assert that their policy has been successful; the reverse, however, was the case, for it had proved to be a total failure. He felt a certain amount of sympathy for the present Finance Minister. The administration of the Finance Department under the regime of the Provincial Secretary had been reckless in the extreme. The prosperity of the country began before the present administration took office. Mr. Beaven then went on to make several quotations from the Colonist—the organ of the present government—to prove the prosperity of the country during the term of the late administration.

The Hon. Mr. Smithe put the question as to whether a member was in order in quoting from a scrap book.

The Speaker said he was.

Mr. Beaven said the leader of the government did not wish to hear the views of his own organ. There was no newspaper that had done more to build up the government. If we could see the times of 1858 and 1863, we might say the country was in a prosperous condition. The administration of the affairs of the country by the present government has failure written upon every department. It had been characterized by mismanagement of its finances; the mismanagement of its lands, the mismanagement of its public works. The finances of the province were in a sound condition when the present government came into office. The revenue and expenditure of the country since Confederation has been largely dealt with by the Finance Minister, but he had omitted to make any reference to a most vital and interesting point, namely, as to how the present deficit was to be met, except by the means of an overdraft at the bank, which he had not the authority to negotiate without the consent and sanction of the Legislature. The policy of the second Walkem government was a policy of keeping the revenue within the expenditure. If the hon. gentleman could show as good a record as the previous government it would be to the advantage of the country. It would have been of interest if the hon. gentleman had explained the many discrepancies in the estimates of revenue for the last year. There were large discrepancies under almost every head between the estimated revenue and the sum actually received. If the road tolls are to be repealed, how does the Finance Minister account for an estimated revenue of $10,000 for the financial year of 1887 from that source? With regard to education it was reasonable to expect that the expenditure on that account was far less per capita in Ontario than in this country, considering that the former was a much older province with a very much larger population. The government claimed that the provincial revenue under the present administration had largely increased. So far as two heads of receipts were concerned, this was apparent in land sales and provincial revenue tax. But if the two last years of the Walkem government and the two first of the Smithe were taken by way of comparison, it would be found that the total increase of revenue was practically confined to four heads, namely an increase in interest on Dominion subsidy, for which the present government were not entitled to any credit; the forfeiture of the McNamee deposit of $11,000, which could not be claimed as actual revenue, an increase in the sum derived from sale of lands, town lots, &c., and the increase of the provincial revenue consequent upon railway construction, amounting in all to $270,000, are items which cannot be counted upon for the next fiscal year. The fact is that the actual revenue of the province does not show any material increase. The total revenue for the first six months of the present fiscal year has been only $213,000, which, as compared with former years is a very low average.

Mr. Beaven was addressing the House at 6 o'clock.

EVENING SESSION.

By agreement the debate was adjourned and the House went into Committee of Supply, Mr. Pooley in the chair.

The items from 1 to 131 were voted, when the committee rose and reported progress and asked leave to sit again.

VANCOUVER.

The House went into committee on the bill to incorporate the city of Vancouver, Mr. Galbraith in the chair.

Clause 2 was passed, when Mr. T. Davie, for the purpose of killing the bill, moved that the committee rise. This was afterwards withdrawn, and the committee rose and reported progress.

On motion of Mr. Smithe, the bill was referred to a special committee, consisting of Messrs. Drake, Orr, Galbraith, Grant and Semlin.

MUNICIPALITY ACT.

The Municipality Acts Amendment Bill was considered in committee, Mr. Cowan in the chair.

Mr. Grant moved that a clause be inserted providing that the mayor, reeve presiding officer or chairman of any meeting of any municipal council shall have the casting vote in case of a tie and no other.

The motion was carried.

Mr. Grant moved that the City Council of Victoria may accept said, purchase, maintain a free or partially free library, provided always that the ratepayers give their approval to the proposition.

The motion was carried.

Mr. Theo. Davie moved that the Councils have power to grant pecuniary or other aid for educational purposes or hospitals, subject to the approval of the ratepayers, in respect of bylaws creating debts. Carried.

An amendment, by Hon. Mr. Robson, providing that drainage ordered by the council, may be paid for by a rate levied on the property benefitted, was carried.

Hon. Mr. Robson moved that all elections held under the Municipalities Act of 1881, and bylaws passed, shall be deemed valid.

Also moved that all persons assessed and liable for road tax may perform two days' statute labor instead, under direction of the mayor or reeve. Carried.

The committee rose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again.

The House adjourned at 12 o'clock.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

SOCIAL PURITY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—Judging from the tenor of some articles in your last week's issues, I venture to hope that you will not object to another of the same, for fathers and mothers to ponder over. The cutting subjoined is from one of the weeklies of the Great Republic where, with tens of thousands of her best men and women, reform and progress are a paramount abiding and lively concern; for that great country, like older ones, has her load of manifold evils to abate, and, if it be in the order of Providence, to overcome finally. It is in connection with the "White Cross movement:"

"If any movement for promoting morality and virtue was ever heaven-ordained, the one designated as the "White Cross" movement must have been. It was one year Feb. 14, says the New York Sun, that Rector B. F. DeCosta announced in the Episcopal church of St. John the Evangelist, of that city, that the White Cross Society had been established in New York, with a membership of young men pledged to labor for the extinction of the social evil, to protect women from insult and harm, to rebuke indecent language, and to maintain that the law of chastity is equally binding on men and women. Feb. 14th, in the same church, the White Cross Society commemorated the anniversary. Every pew in the church was filled. Many women were interested listeners to the report of the spread of the society through the country. Assistant Bishop Potter presided. There are branches now in India, Africa, Australia and Canada. The English branch has extended its work into Scotland and Ireland. The society has taken root in the universities of Oxford, Cambridge, and Edinburgh. The new tracts, teaching the importance of personal purity, have now been issued by the New York branch. It has been found, the report says, that to-day the drink habit is the fatal feeder of sexual vice. The report further says that the President of the White Cross Society in America was told by a champion in London, familiar with all the facts, that the shocking revelations last summer of nauseous social vices in London did not reveal one-tenth of the truth. But the White Cross Society felt renewed hope in its crusade from the fact that frightful as the extent of wickedness was, it had already been much abated. Only a little while ago, the report said, Dr. De Costa received a letter from Miss Ellice Hopkins, the leader of the White Cross movement in London, in which she says: "Already young girls below sixteen have disappeared from our miserable streets, and in ten years time I believe we shall have delivered our land of her sorest plague." The National Women's Temperance union of Philadelphia recently established a department for the promotion of social purity, patterned after the White Cross Society. The women of the union have organized to save fallen women by women's aid. In Illinois, Miss Frances E. Willard has established in Chicago the Victoria League, an auxiliary of the White Cross, which especially seeks to labor among mothers and daughters with the view of exhibiting the effects of sexual vice, teaching a true physiology, and advocating the general establishment of a White Cross Code of morals in female society. The movement has spread among American colleges. The students of Lee University, in Virginia, formed a White Cross Society the moment they heard that one had been established in New York. The Society for the Prevention of State Regulation of Vice is co-operating with the White Cross Society in fighting the social evil and toleration of it. The formation of this society can not result otherwise than in great good to the world at large.

The wonderfully rapid extension of this White Cross movement to so many parts of the old and the younger world must be one of the best assurances of its early success. Why do not some of the ladies of Victoria who know and greatly admire Frances E. Willard of Chicago, Illinois, obtain from her by post further information as to organization, &c. The parents of Victoria, and particularly those having boys at or approaching the ticklish age, should unite for immediate action. Our city greatly needs such reform. PATERFAMILIAS.

GUBERNATORIAL CHAIRS.

Sir John Angling with the Ontario and British Columbia Lieut-Governorships.

The editorial correspondent of the Montreal Herald, writing from Ottawa, concerning the Lieut.-Governorship of Ontario states that the most probable candidate is Mr. Speaker Kirkpatrick, although Sir Alex. Campbell is a candidate, and anxious to retire from the cabinet. The most cordial of relations do not exist between Sir Alexander and Sir John, caused it is alleged by the feeling of attachment and admiration evinced by the Postmaster General for Hon. Mr. Mowat, who like Sir John and Sir Alexander, is also a Kingstonian and a contemporary of these gentlemen, although of a different shade of politics. The writer adds:

Then there is another Lieut.-Governor to be appointed shortly in British Columbia, and a good deal of feeling is exhibited by the representatives from that section at the rumors that are afloat that Mr. Trutch will get it. At the time of confederation of that province with Canada, Trutch, who was one of the delegates, took care to stipulate for a pension for himself, which he is still entitled to. He was appointed Lieutenant-Governor of the province and when his term of five years expired he was appointed Financial agent and had control of government expenditures in connection with the Pacific Railway and other works; he has wielded the rod of a despot while he has occupied the position that has enabled him to render himself almost universally detested by his pretentions conduct, his toadyism to Sir John, and his arbitrary proceedings in the exercise of his office. He and his statements had weight with Sir John, and not the representatives of the people. This is the man whom, it is said, Sir John favors. The man supported by the representatives, is said to be Senator Nelson, a man well qualified for the position, and whose appointment would be deservedly popular.

There is a good deal of talk, too, about the removal of Governor Dewdney, who has proved a failure as an administrator, but, as Sir John stated last session, that he was the best appointment he ever made, we may fairly assume that with a majority of 80 in the House and a thorough disregard for what his supporters wish, Sir John to carry out his statement will stand by his assertion and refuse to remove him. However, we shall see what we shall see.

CABLE DESPATCHES.

GREECE TO MOBILIZE.

ATHENS, March 30.—It is stated that the government will submit to Parliament a measure providing for a compulsory loan and for the confiscation of monastery lands. A report is current that the government intends to mobilize the National Guards.

THE BELGIUM RIOTS.

BRUSSELS, March 30.—Quietness has not only been restored at Charleroi, but the strikers generally are returning to work. The only locality where disturbances have increased is in the central coal mining district.

THE ST. LOUIS STRIKE.

Meeting of the Conference in New York to-Day.

Negotiations Proceeding Satisfactorily and a Settlement Close at Hand.

NEW YORK, March 30, 1 p. m.—The question as to the general principle of arbitration is being thoroughly discussed at the conference between Gould and the Committee of the Knights of Labor today. The session began at 11 a. m. and still continues. Hoxie in St. Louis is connected with the committee by a direct wire and is taking an active part in the conference. A gentleman who has been in the committee room all morning, states that the outlook for an agreement as to the manner and condition of settlement by arbitration is very favorable.

THE STRIKE.

NEW YORK, March 30. 11 a. m.—Powderly, accompanied by Turner, Bailey, Hayes and McDowell, are now in conference with Jay Gould and Geo. Gould, and Vice-President Hopkins at the office of the Missouri Pacific Company.

ST. LOUIS, March 30.—The Missouri Pacific is preparing to move freight trains as usual to-day, and there is a greater air of activity about its large freight depot than at any previous time during the strike. No trains had left east St. Louis up to 10 a.m. The situation there is considered somewhat threatening, though no outbreak has occurred.

The Adjutant General of Illinois has directed the 5th regiment of State troops to hold itself in readiness for service. This is in obedience to a call for troops at east St. Louis.

FIRE AT KEY WEST.

KEY WEST, March 30.—Five blocks in the centre of this city were burned this morning and the fire is still raging. It started in the San Carlos theatre at one o'clock this morning. The Episcopal and Baptist churches are among the buildings consumed.

SECRETARY MANNING.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Secretary Manning's condition shows no change.

A SUCCESSFUL SALE.

NEW WESTMINSTER, March 30.—At the sale of city property held in this city today, fifteen town lots were sold at prices ranging from $105 to $505. The total sale amounted to $5200.

WOMAN'S MODESTY.

Miss Cleveland Answers Criticisms upon Herself and Condemns Some Society Women.

Miss Cleveland has been sharply criticised for encouraging at the White House immodest dressing in society. A lady has sent the following letter to the Boston Transcript, which she received from Miss Cleveland in response to a note of inquiry on the subject: "I am very glad you have spoken to me about this matter, for it gives me an opportunity to say to you, and through you perhaps to others, what I have long wished but have had no opportunity to say. The newspaper statement with regard to my 'immodest dress' and its influence in encouraging shocking scarcity of waists and sleeves in other women's dress has been sent me several times, with accompanying comments, but always anonymously, so that I have been unable to reply had I deemed the animus of the communication honest enough to justify an honest response. That has not always been the case. But today I received a note from a person who speaks of himself as an aged clergyman, who signs his full name to the communication and seems to be genuinely concerned and friendly, although scarcely can reconcile the true interest and true respect with which he signs himself as consistent with the credence which he has given apparently to the statement which forms the occasion of his protest. I should hardly feel true interest or true respect for a person whom I believed to be doing what the newspaper slip represents me to be doing, namely, using the brief prominence of my position to encourage habits in dress and manners which are subversive of 'whatsoever things are pure, lovely, honest, and of good report.' Such I believe the immodest dress of some few society women to be, and against such immodesty I have made that silent protest which it is every woman's right and duty to make by having my own dress waist cut in a style which, so far as modesty is concerned, I should be quite willing to have all women to whom this style of dress is becoming and comfortable follow. I approve of evening dress which shows neck and arms. I do not approve of any dress which shows the bust. Between the neck and bust there is a line always to be drawn, and it is as clear to the most frivolous society women as to the anatomists. This line need never be passed. And a fashionable dress need never be immodest. If it is so it is because she prefers to be so. It is wholly false, so far as I have observed, that a shocking scarcity of waists and sleeves mark the gowns of society women.' This is sadly and painfully true of a few 'society women,' and it is indeed shocking, nauseating, revolting, and deserving of the utmost denunciation on the score of morality, beauty, health, and every other consideration which good men and women should conspire to preserve and exalt. There is need of very few words on this subject, and no argument. Any American woman can wear the waist of her evening dress up to the lobes of her ears if she likes. There is no queen to command her appearance at low carriage. She can also, also, so contrive her dress that by the exposure of her person all true social ethics and esthetics as well are revolted. Between the two there is an appropriate and beautiful and modest mean which all can, if they will, follow."

AYE READY!

Advices from Halifax are to the effect that the Dominion government is taking steps to protect our fisheries on the Atlantic seaboard. That it is in earnest may be assumed from the fact that Captain P. A. Scorr has been gazetted "Fishery Officer under the Fishery Act, and commander of all steamers owned or chartered by the government for protection of the fisheries." Captain Scorr was at one time an officer in the Royal Navy, and since his retirement has been in the employ of the Canadian government, his headquarters being Halifax. He is a bluff, hearty Englishman, about fifty years of age. He has already had experience as Fishery Officer, having occupied that position in 1870. The steamer Lansdowne, owned by the government, is at St. John, N. B., where she is being fitted out for a cruise around the coast. She will carry two six-pound guns. The Lansdowne is a comparatively new steamer, having been built about two years ago to replace one which was wrecked. She is a poor ship in bad weather. When she will start on her expedition is not known, but it is expected there will be little delay in getting her off. Captain Scorr, in an interview, says that he will go out for the purpose of taking a look around. It is too early for American fishermen to be in our waters. The penalty for refusing to leave a Canadian harbor after procuring that for which the vessel puts in is £200. At present the treaty of 1818 is in force, and under one of its sections United States fishermen can enter Canadian harbors only for the purpose of shelter, or to procure repairs, wood, or water.

The steamers under the control of Dominion Government consist of the screw-steamer Napoleon III.; the Druid, paddle wheel; the Newfield, screw; the Lansdowne, screw; the Sir James Douglas, screw; the Northern Light, screw, and the Bayfield, screw. The Napoleon III. during the past season performed light-house service in the Lower St. Lawrence, Straits of Belle Isle, and north shore of New Brunswick. The Druid has been "laid up for repairs." It is proposed to invite tenders for new boilers and engines, and putting her in good condition. The Newfield has recently been put in good order, having received new boilers, etc. The Sir James Douglas is engaged in light-house and Dominion service generally in this province. The Northern Light is employed in maintaining communication between Prince Edward Island and the mainland. The Bayfield is a wooden steamer, purchased by the Canadian Government for the purpose of the survey of the Georgian Bay.

It will be seen from this list, which gives the total strength of the Canadian navy already in the service, that if Canada desires to take effective measures to prevent American fishermen from trespassing on her fishing grounds, the service of a better class of vessels than she now controls will have to be obtained. There are owned in the maritime provinces, however, many fast sailing schooners, and doubtless these will be drawn on in case of necessity. Then there is the further fact that the Canadian Minister of Marine and Fisheries has advertised for six swift sailing vessels, which will be suitably armed and equipped for cruising They will, in all probability have the outward appearance of a fishing craft, the better to effect the purpose for which they are intended.

The Montreal Herald suggests the employment of detectives on water as well as on land. It asks "why should not one or two of our Canadian cruisers take the form of Gloucester or Boothbay or Portland fishermen, and sail with the Yankee fleet? The experiment might be worth trying. Nor would it cost much to have a few Nova Scotia or New Brunswick fishermen as detectives among the crews of the Yankee vessels. These devices might help to bring matters to a head, and the sooner this advanced stage is reached the better for all interests. At all events our cruisers are expected to be on the fishing grounds by the time the spring fishing has opened. If not, Canadians will want to know the reason why.

ANOTHER ENDORSEMENT.

Not many months since the senior organ of the provincial government in this city laughed at the idea of the Canadian Pacific Railway being able to obtain even a moiety of the carrying trade between the Orient and the Occident. No doubt the wish was father to the thought with the Colonist; but its fanciful idea in this, as in many other of its nonsensical theories is destined to disappointment. The House of Lords recognize the importance of Canada's great national highway to the empire, by resolving to grant it the handsome subsidy of £100,000 per annum for a term of ten years, as a subsidy to a line of steamers between this province and Hongkong, which assures the success of the project. Following close upon the announcement made by Lord GRANVILLE comes the intelligence that the London Chamber of Commerce has petitioned the government to support a Canadian Pacific steamship line, expressing the opinion that the new commercial route to Australia and Asia would prove of great value to British interests. This shows that London business men are interested in the new route and that they will make use of it. Concerning the importance of the new route to Canada's commerce the Montreal Star writes that at present New York importers are sometimes able to obtain better rates than those of any other city in America, because so many steamship lines run to that port from Europe. If the Canadian Pacific Railway obtains the bulk of transportation trade between Europe and Asia, or even a large share of it, the number of steamships arriving at this port must be greatly increased, and consequently Canadians will obtain better rates. But Canadian manufacturers should not forget that if this road should prove the commercial highway between the east and west they have a very big start of the Europeans in the race for Europe. If British merchants find it pays to cross the Atlantic and then take the Canadian railway to the Pacific how much better is the position of the Canadians who are on the line of railway and are not obliged to cross the Atlantic. Canadians must be very wide awake, however, or they will only be able to watch the trade passing by their doors. Every Canadian manufacturer should make a careful study of the resources and requirements of Australasia, India, Japan and China with a view to pushing trade in those countries. So far as India and the Australian colonies are concerned the Colonial Exhibition which begins in London on the first of May offers an excellent opportunity to study the trade question, to learn what the various colonies have to sell and what they want to buy.

MORE RIGHTS.

The Star and other Montreal journals, deem the present a fitting time to agitate the enlargement of the St. Lawrence canals, i. e., the water way between the foot of Lake Ontario and that city. With that object in view a movement has already been set on foot by the Boards of Trade in Hamilton, Toronto, Kingston and Montreal, to urge upon the government the necessity of taking up the scheme. This would involve an expenditure of many millions; a return for which would be doubtful for many years. It is claimed that by making Montreal a free port the great bulk of the Northwest American, as well as Canadian, grain trade, would find its way to the Atlantic sea board by the St. Lawrence route; that with the enlargement of the Welland and St. Lawrence canals, the deepening of the channel from Quebec to Montreal through Lake St. Peter, and the St. Clair flats, ordinary size vessels could ascend as far as the head of Lake Superior—to Duluth and Port Arthur—from the ocean. Rival schemes to the above have arisen in the construction of a canal from the Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario via the Trent river; and the Ottawa river ship canal project, which always has had many supporters. Either of these would effect a great saving in the time now occupied of going round by Lake Erie, but the cost of constructing such works would be enormously heavy—estimated all the way from twenty-five to fifty millions of dollars. By many it is asserted that these schemes are agitated with the view of stifling the Hudson Bay route from Winnipeg, which would become a competitor to the Canadian Pacific Railway for the carrying trade of the Northwest reaching Winnipeg from the interior by the Assiniboine and Red rivers. It is not likely, however, that the Dominion will undertake any of these schemes for some time.

In view of the agitation concerning the employment of Canadian labor by the Detroit City Railway Company, the following schedule has been furnished by the company. Number of men employed, 215; American, 78; Scotch, 16; Irish, 48; German, 15; Canadians, 44; French 2; English, 10; Danes, 2; total, 215. Number who are citizens, 163; aliens, 52. Among the aliens there are 7 Scotch, 14 Irish, 3 Germans, 23 Canadian, 1 French, 3 English and 1 Dane. Of the aliens 27 have been in the company's employ from one to six years. The company claims that its employes—conductors and drivers—are tradesmen whose trades are either too hard or too confining They require open air work. That their work is easy and averages only 11 hours per day, for which they receive $1.50.

Paupers in Nearly all Trades.

A gentleman who is connected with a charitable organization that contributed to the relief of about 9,000 distressed people in this city during the past year, when speaking of the liability of different grades of working persons to come to want, said:

"My experience shows that no class is exempt from absolute pauperism, but it is very plain that some trades furnish better livelihoods than others, and that any trade is better than no trade, unless it is the trade of seamstress for a woman. Thus we were called on to relieve 549 laborers and only fifty-five carpenters seventy-nine 'longshoremen, and seven plumbers, and that shows, too, the difference between trades. Among builders we notice a striking peculiarity. Relief was given to eighty-six painters and twenty-six masons and bricklayers, while only six hod-carriers were found to be in need. I think this is due to the solid front presented by the Hod-Carriers' union. Among the metal workers we relieved twelve brass-fitters, seven boiler-makers, twenty-three blacksmiths, twenty-six machinists, thirteen moulders and fifteen tinsmiths. I was somewhat astonished to find that twenty-one engineers were needed. They were men trained to care for stationary engines in nearly all cases.

"Horsemen seem to be as well off as most wageworkers. We relieved nineteen coachmen, sixty-three drivers and twenty-three truck-drivers. The clerks and salesmen relieved numbered 105, but the saleswomen numbered only five. Against this small number we have to place 389 seamstresses and 635 washers and scrubbers. There are thirty-four nurses on our lists also. The servants of the city, considering their number, are not badly off. We relieved forty-nine cooks, sixty-four waiters, and thirty-five other servants. Among other trades we supplied the wants of forty-one printers, one press-feeder, two shoe-cutters, one trapeze performer, sixty-seven tailors, one undertaker, three watchmakers, one ropemaker, five milliners, four paper-hangers, eighteen seamen, and three photographers. The professions are not exempt, for we had five physicians, one organist, five clergymen, thirteen teachers, four lawyers, four artists and one editor. There are no paupers among the reporters."—New York Sun.

How the Esquimaux Digs a Well.

Usually the Esquimaux can tell which way the current of a frozen river trends by lying flat on the ice, and placing the face close to it, and turning the eyes alternately to the right and left, or up and down stream, sighting along the level ice; but although two of the keenest sighted of the Esquimaux young men tried this plan on several parts of Thanksgiving river, they gave up in despair shaking their heads and informing me that if the ice was off the river so that we could see the water flowing it would be a very sluggish current. The only way to settle the matter would be to dig through the ice, some five or six feet thick, and sink a pole in the ice-well, first on one side and then on the other, until the force of the current, however sluggish, would carry it across to the other side, and determine the direction of the current.

This cutting an ice-well is very interesting and is done with two instruments, each on the end of a long pole. The first is a chisel, a sharpened spike, a bayonet, or any such instrument, with which the native cuts a hole about a foot deep in the ice and probably a foot and a half wide. This chopped ice made by the ice-chisel is then scooped out by a sort of ladle made of musk ox horn on the end of another pole, and this alteration of cutting and scooping is kept up, digging out from six to twelve inches each time, until the water is reached six or seven feet below. The farthest I ever saw them dig an ice-well to get to fresh water was eight feet and a half.—Lieut. Schwatka in Harper's Young People.

Possibilities of the "Piano" Typesetter.

The capitalists and editors are sure they have, at Washington, a keyboard that will cast a column of type each hour. It is therefore confidently predicted that the typesetter's vocation is gone. There are two compositors—one thinks the fault is all his own; the other thinks thinks the fault is all due to the carelessness with which the copy is prepared. There will never be a machine like the first man, and there will be a machine which is so serious a failure as is the second man.

The success of any "piano" probably depends largely on the extent to which "blacksmithing" has driven real printers out of the composing rooms. There is one other consideration of importance in this matter, and that is: As the masses rapidly became reconciled to poor machine-made footwear, they may easily become willing to accept poor machine-made print. The pegs may stick out and a screw may gouge occasionally, but the price will be fabulously cheap, and the quality will always improve, while, under the system of hand-made reading, the quality has not improved at least, for a hundred years.

New Material for Various Uses.

According to The Journal des Fabricants de Papier, a material called asphalted jute is being largely employed in Germany for covering roofs, and isolating damp walls and floors, and for preventing bad odors from reaching apartments situated over stables, etc. It consists of strong jute cloth coated with specially prepared asphaltum, and covered on each side with strong, asphaltum-coated paper. In order to obtain a very compact product, the whole is submitted to a very strong pressure.

The material can be used on farms for making tight reservoirs, in the construction of bridges, and in many other cases where there is need of a material that is at once strong, impermeable, and cheap. —Scientific American.

The Ancient Capital of Burmah.

Pagan Myo, on the bank of the Irrawaddy, just above Minhla, and now in possession of the British troops, is the ancient capital of Burmah and in ruins. It extends for ten miles along the river and is choked with jungle. Its pagodas are almost countless, and one of them ranks next to the famous Taj Mahal. The neighboring hills are dotted with ruined pagodas razed by the hill tribes (who are not Buddhists) for the the sake of the gold and silver images of Gaptama buried beneath each when it was founded.—Boston Transcript.

The Hunter Gave an Explanation.

Miss S.—Ah, Mr. St. John, you have been out shooting. What sort of luck did you have?

Mr. St. J.—Well, I scared up seven partridges.

Miss S.—How many did you shoot?

Mr. St. J.—I did not bag any, of course, for I had my sniping suit on, don't you know."—Life.

LOVE'S DREAD.

Eyes, but for you I had not seen
Her motion, grace, and lovely mien!
Ears, but for you I had not heard
Her voice that spake no loveless word!
And Touch, thou mad'st me understand
Her lips' delight, her soothing hand!
I thank ye for each message brought
I thank ye for each beauty taught;
But oh! ye are a trustier
To give me true reports of
Till I might rise myself above
And adequately know my love!
O Careless Fate, Love's all to trust
To these frail gossips of the dust!

BURDETTE AT A COUNTY FAIR.

Among the Fat Porkers, Jersey Cows and Cochin China Chickens—His Notes.

Phocion Howard takes to himself the credit of helping Bob Burdette in his first reportorial assignment. They were both in Peoria, and Bob had written one or two things for the papers, but had never had any regular work. The county fair was being held, and The Transcript wanted an extra man to do it, and Bob was given the assignment. It was a pretty big job for a green hand, but Bob went at it in a conscientious way. He poked the fat porkers, and punched the Jersey cows and Alderney calves; he examined the Cochin Chinas and sampled the fruit and vegetables. Then he strolled to the race-track and attempted to master the situation there. All this time his notes, hastily jotted down, were accumulating, and by the time he was half through the list of prizes he had scribbled over a ream of copy paper.

It was very hot, and Bob sat down under a tree and began to decipher his memoranda. The more he looked at his notes the more confused he became until at the end of an hour he was unable to tell whether Cochin Chinas were pigs or ducks. He was about ready to blubber with vexation at the thought of making a botch of his first assignment when along happened Phocion. "What on earth are you trying to do, Bob?" asked he. Bob explained. "Let me see your notes," said Phocion. Bob ruefully handed over a great wad of hieroglyphics. Howard looked at the notes a moment and then into ribbons. Bob gave a howl of alarm, but Howard quieted him, saying: "Leave it to me. I'll show you how an old newspaper man does this fair. Let's have a drink." After they had the drink they left for the race-track and took in a couple of heats.

All this time Bob was in trepidation lest he should slip up on his work, but Phocion with the utmost sang froid assured him that it would be all right. He led Bob around the entire fair, stopping every few feet to discuss politics with a politician or crops with a farmer. "Now, we will commence our work," he said at length, as he entered the secretary's office. From that official he obtained a written list of all the entries and prizes, the result of the races, the number of people present, and a summary of the day's incidents, together with some gossip. At a desk Howard went through the secretary's matter, edited it, wrote a little descrip- and an introduction, and handed the whole to the waiting Robert with the remark: "Don't let a little thing like a county fair rattle you."—Chicago News.

The Patrons of the Gymnasium.

In many gymnasiums pupils run to specialties. One will spend his time on the parallel bars, another in running, a few at the rowing machines. They soon begin to neglect the light pulley-weights of the modern for the heavy work of the old regime. This is the greatest fault of the gymnasium.

A great many persons come to the gymnasium to be cured of dyspepsia. They are given a special course of training. In a few weeks they feel better. In six months they feel so strong that they neglect daily exercise altogether; or, what is worse, neglect instructions, and, by attempting the work delegated to the strong and able-bodied, break down altogether. Nervous men, men with symptoms of heart disease, find quick results from proper work. But the great mass of the membership is of young men and boys. Many of them come to build up a huge pair of biceps, and neglect their vitals or sap the life of their system by requiring of it too much blood for a particular development. The best results are all attained by regular, light exercise. Huge, bulging muscles are no indication of strength or endurance. The lithe, graceful body of the all-around athlete is incomparably the best.—Chicago News.

Gen B. F. Butler's Financial Affairs.

Gen. Butler has spent a great deal of money on politics within the last few years, and if it were not for his lucrative law practice he would be pretty hard pressed financially. A well-posted friend of his tells me that each of his campaigns for the governorship of Massachusetts cost him a cool $100,000, and he has poured fortunes into politics while he has neglected his business by engaging in it.

"How much does he make a year at the law?" I asked.

"No man but Butler knows," was the reply. "He does not practice law for fun, and he likes money as well as most men. He likes work, too, and could not exist without it. He once told me that he would rather fight a case at $10 a side than do nothing. He was born Guy Fawkes day, and was 67 years old the 5th day of this month. He is good for twenty years yet, and is as strong physically and mentally as he was during the war. He will work until he dies, and when he dies his life will go out like the snuff of a candle, and he will drop down in the harness."—Frank G. Carpenter's Letter.

A Tin Coating for Fabrics.

A process exists in Germany for coating linen and cotton fabrics with a heavy, flexible, brilliant film of tin. A thin paste, formed by stirring commercial zinc-dust into a solution of egg albumen, is laid on the fabric by brushing or pressure, and after drying is coagulated by heated steam. The fabric is then placed in a bath of perchloride of tin, receiving a fine precipitation of tin upon the zinc. After being rinsed and dried the fabric is put through a glazing machine, where it receives a high polish.—Scientific Journal.

—Commenting upon the financial position of this province as set forth in THE TIMES, the Toronto Monetary Times writes that even allowing for the heated nature of provincial politics and the strong language used in them, there appears good ground for the Victoria TIMES to say, as it does, that a change should be made in the system.

OBITUARY.

We regret to learn of the death of Mr. Earle Aitken, at Pomona, Los Angeles Co., California, on the 9th inst. Mr. Aitken was a native of Truro, N. S., which place he left about three years ago, going to Manitoba, where he remained about a year. Thinking that the climate of the Pacific coast would agree with him better, he came to British Columbia, and for about a year was telegraph operator at Port Moody, afterwards going to North Bend. But the disease, consumption, had become deep-rooted and his health steadily grew worse. About two months ago he proceeded to southern California, accompanied by his father Mr. J. W. D. Aitken, who remained with him through his last illness. He was a young man of much promise, only 22 years of age, and was very much esteemed by all who knew him.

GOLD AT LILLOOET.

Mr. E. Allen, M. P. P., has received a letter from a gentleman at Lillooet, which he has handed to us for publication. It is as follows: "We have quite a gold excitement here at present. About ten days ago five Chinese went up Cayoosh Creek prospecting. They returned and procured fifteen mining licenses, and fifteen claims were recorded last Thursday. During the last three days about one hundred men have gone to the locality. They say but little, but from the number that have gone the prospects must be good. They go to a place about ten miles above the mill. They say there are seven or eight miles that will pay, and possibly more beyond. The country is open and plenty of bars and benches on the creek. No one knows what they found, but most likely we shall hear very soon. The gold is coarse."

TEACHERS' CONVENTION.

We understand that the Provincial Secretary has completed arrangements with the various transportation companies in the province whereby parties attending the Teachers' Convention next July, will be conveyed to and from this city at a single fare. This is a step in the right direction, and one for which credit will be given to Mr. Robson by the teachers under his administration, who thus will be afforded an opportunity to meet with each other in council assembled for the purpose of interchanging ideas and modes of imparting instruction to the youth of our land, at such a price as will ensure a large gathering.

A WELCOME VISITOR.

Mr. Thomas Kerr, Inspector of the Standard Life Assurance Company, arrived from the east yesterday. The Standard, for which Messrs. Robert Ward & Co. are the general agents in this province, is one of the most reliable of life companies. It is Mr. Kerr's intention to remain in the province a few weeks. He expresses himself as pleased with the great progress Victoria has made within the last two years, which to him is very apparent. The climate is so charming, as compared with the east, that he scarcely realizes that he is still in Canada. Mr. Kerr's many old friends here will be pleased to see him once more in their midst.

A VICTORIA ROMANCE.

DRAMATIS PERSONÆ: A parent, a daughter, a clerk.

He hesitates to waiting

TORONTO'S GROWTH.

The growth of Toronto for the past fourteen years has been phenomenal. In 1871 the assessed value of her realty was $22,037,470; in 1885, $60,255,167, exclusive of several millions of overflow in the suburbs. In 1871 her population numbered 56,920; in 1885, including that of the suburbs, it is estimated at 130,000.

OUGHT TO ADVERTISE.

Now dealers all,
Both great and small,
If you your goods would sell,
There is no way,
So sure to pay,
As advertising well.

To make it known
What goods you own,
You ought to advertise;
Pay out your dimes
And try THE TIMES,
And you will see it's wise.

In all the town,
Both up and down,
The DAILY TIMES is sold;
No paper can,
To every man,
So well your wants unfold.

If something's lost,
Don't mind the cost,
It sure will pay you well;
For in THE TIMES,
Just a few lines,
With all the city tell.

'Tis always wise
To advertise,
If you would sell or buy,
You will not say
That 'tis astray,
If in THE TIMES you try.

PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT.

FORTIETH DAY.

TUESDAY, March 30.

The Speaker took the chair at 2 p. m. Prayers were read by Rev. Mr. Beanlands.

PRIVILEGE.

Mr. Galbraith corrected the report of his remarks in the Colonist.

VANCOUVER.

Mr. Drake, of the special committee to whom the bill to incorporate the City of Vancouver was referred, reported the bill complete with amendments.

ASSIZE COURT.

Attorney-General Davie moved the second reading of the Assize Court Bill.

The House went into committee, Mr. Semlin in the chair.

The bill provides for holding the spring assizes at Victoria, on the first Monday in May, and the fourth Monday in the month of November.

The bill was passed through committee, and was reported to the House with amendments.

The bill was then read a third time and passed.

SUPPLY.

On the motion to go into supply, Mr. Beaven resumed the debate. He observed that it was a supreme farce to go into supply and vote large sums of money, as had been done last night, without knowing where it was to come from. There should have been sufficient independence in the House to have prevented such a course being pursued. The revenue of the province did not show much expansion, in fact during the past six months it had decreased $75,000. With a falling revenue it was not to the credit of the Legislature that they should sit here and vote away money when they did not know where it was to come from. He remembered, when fighting the battles of confederation, advocating the introduction of responsible government, and he was met by men who said that responsible government would not work in this province. But it looked now as though responsible government was a delusion, when the Finance Minister proposed to make an overdraft without any authority from this House. He warned him against the course he proposed taking, as it would render him liable to impeachment. It was not safe to assume that the same amount of revenue would be derived from the personal tax as had been collected in past years during railway construction. It was obvious that the revenue from this source must materially decrease. It was evident also that the large amounts received by the government on dry dock account, McNamee contract, &c., made up the additional revenue of $272,000 received last year, and unless the golden vision of the Provincial Secretary that the Coal Harbor lands would bring $500 per acre, were to be realized, there would be a serious falling off in the revenue. He accused the government of confiscating the property of the city of Victoria for the purpose of swelling the revenues of the province, and they had even sold the property of a settler who had been in the province for years struggling to get a living. The sale of lands at Hastings, and to speculators all through the province at $1 an acre, was one of the ways the government raised the revenue. It was one of the most outrageous methods that could be devised to swell the amount going into the treasury. The government, however, would soon have to face the country that they have deceived, and it would doubtless reply that it was the most corrupt government that has ever occupied a seat on the Treasury benches. The financial policy of the government was a failure, and the management of the Public Works Department was worse. The member for Victoria (T. Davie) had referred the other day to a man who was attempting to "hog" a piece of land, but the member for Nanaimo, it appears, was waging to "hog" the whole of the land on the Island. He disputed the right of the member for Nanaimo to the lands at Newcastle, which had been set aside by the H. B. Co. Mr. Waddington and other squatters were deprived of their rights by the government in the interest of the member for Nanaimo. If we go to the mainland, we find that the squatters there have their just claims ignored by this paternal government. He was astonished that the Provincial Secretary did not demand from the Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works that he should do justice to the squatters on government lands in his district. The more he considered the question of railway lands, the more he was convinced that there was no transfer of lands west of Port Moody to the Dominion government and it was an outrage that the squatters on those lands should not be protected by the government. The greatest confusion seemed to reign in the lands department and there never was a time when this House should step in and give it a complete overhauling. But he was not surprised at the state of chaos that existed for he had seen the conduct of the hon. gentleman in the Finance department. He did not blame him any further than he was culpable in accepting a position he was wholly incompetent to fill. Not only was the lands department in confusion, but the system of doing public work by contract was abandoned and the public works act had been violated. Out of a sum of $400,000 spent in public works, the sum of $243,000 had been expended without any contract being called. The letting of the contract for the Point Ellice and Asheroft bridges on the plan adopted by permitting the contractors to furnish the plans and specifications—was in direct violation of the act which provided that the Chief Commissioner should prepare them. It was another evidence of the incompetency of the hon. gentleman to discharge the duties of his office. There were more disputes between the province and the Dominion government to-day than ever before—the precious metals in the railway belt; the Farwell reserve; the sale of lands in the railway belt, &c. When the former government was in power the hon. gentleman did everything he could to prevent the province obtaining its rights, by thwarting the efforts made to secure them. This government are not only fighting the Dominion government, but they have increased the taxes, and have done everything they can to harrass the people of the province. The heavy customs tariff was quite sufficient without the provincial government putting additional burdens on their shoulders.

THE GREAT STRIKE.

Dispatches from New York, up to six o'clock to-day, indicate that no solution had as yet been reached between the conferring parties relative to the great strike; but the indications are that arrangements are progressing very satisfactorily. The Knights of Labor maintain their position, stoutly claiming the right to be re-instated in their former positions. The discussion covers a very wide field. In it are now involved Senators, Congressmen and State Legislators. Special and "exclusive" wires are used between the parties in New York and those at a distance. Everything is conducted in the greatest secrecy.
